Contents

Foreword v
Acknowledgment vii
Abbreviation ix

Chapter 1: Introduction 1

Chapter 2: Historical Events Leading to the Tripartite Relationship: A Brief Survey 17
2.1. Definition of "Tripartite Relationship" 17
2.2. The Creation Event and Primeval History Account (Gen. 1-11) 18
2.3. Divine Revelation and Promises to the Ancestors 20
2.4. The Exodus Event 21
2.5. The Sinai Event and Covenant Making 22
2.6. The Giving of Law at Sinai and Conditions for Living in the Land 24
2.7. Wilderness Event 25
2.8. Settlement 26
2.9. Monarchy and Enlarging of Borders 28
2.10. The Exile and the Loss of Political Governance 29
2.11. Post Exile and the Return to the Land 30
Conclusion 31

Chapter 3: The Understanding of Land in the Book of Amos 33
3.1. Amos, the Prophet 33
3.2. Historical Context of Amos' Period 34
3.2.1. Political Context 35
3.2.2. Socioeconomic Context 35
3.2.3. Religious Context 36
3.3. Exegetical Studies on the Tripartite Relationship in Amos 37
3.4. Tradition of Brotherhood Covenant (Amos 1:9-10) 38
3.4.1. Translation of Amos 1:9-10 38
3.4.2. Text Critical Comments (TCC) on Amos 1:9-10 38
3.4.3. Form Critical Comments (FCC) Amos 1:9-10 41

3.4.4. Traditions and Theological Comments in the Light of Tripartite Relationship 42
3.5. Kinship Tradition (Amos 1:11-12) 44
3.5.1. Translation on Amos 1:11-12 44
3.5.2. Text Critical Comments on Amos 1:11-12 45
3.5.3. Form Critical Comments on Amos 1:11-12 46
3.5.4. Tradition and Theological Comments in the Light of Tripartite Relationship 47
3.6. The Torah Tradition (Amos 2:4-5) 49
3.6.1. Translation on Amos 2:4-5 49
3.6.2. Text Critical Comments on Amos 2:4-5 49
3.6.3. Form Critical Comments on Amos 2:4-5 50
3.6.4. Tradition and Theological Comments in the Light of Tripartite Relationship 51
3.7. The Exodus, Wilderness and Conquest Traditions (Amos 2:6-16) 53
3.7.1. Translations on Amos 2:6-16 53
3.7.2. Text Critical Comments on Amos 2:6-16 54
3.7.3. Form Critical Comments on Amos 2:6-16 58
3.7.4. Tradition and Theological Comments in the Light of Tripartite Relationship 60
3.8. Covenant Tradition (Amos 4:6-13) 64
3.8.1. Translation on Amos 4:6-13 64
3.8.2. Text Critical Comments on Amos 4:6-13 64
3.8.3. Form Critical Comments on Amos 4:6-13 66
3.8.4. Tradition and Theological Comments in the Light of Tripartite Relationship 69
3.9. Covenant and Wilderness Traditions (Amos 5:21-27) 72
3.9.1. Translation on Amos 5:21-27 72
3.9.2. Text Critical Comments on Amos 5:21-27 72
3.9.3. Form Critical Comments on Amos 5:21-27 75
3.9.4. Tradition and Theological Comments in the Light of Tripartite Relationship 77
3.10. Theophany, Creation and Exodus Traditions (Amos 9: 5-8) 80
3.10.1. Translation on Amos 9:5-8 80
3.10.2. Text Critical Comments on Amos 9:5-8 80
3.10.3. Form Critical Comments on Amos 9:5-8 83
3.10.4. Tradition and Theological Comments in the Light of Tripartite Relationship 84
3.11. Land Promise & Giving Tradition (Amos 9:11-15) 86
3.11.1. Translation on Amos 9:11-15 87
3.11.2. Text Critical Comments on Amos 9:11-15 87
3.11.3. Form Critical Comments on Amos 9:11-15 89

3.11.4. Tradition and Theological Comments in the Light of Tripartite Relationship 91
3.12. Amos' Theology of Land 95

Chapter 4: The Understanding of Land in the Book of Hosea 101
4.1. Hosea, the Prophet 101
4.2. Historical Context of Hosea 102
4.2.1. Political Context 103
4.2.2. Socioeconomic Context 103
4.2.3. Religious Context 104
4.3. Covenant and Creation Traditions (Hosea 2:2-13 [MT 2:4-15]) 105
4.3.1. Translation on Hosea 2:2-13 106
4.3.2. Text Critical Comments on Hosea 2:2-13 106
4.3.3. Form Critical Comments on Hosea 2:2-13 110
4.3.4. Traditions and Theological Comments on the Tripartite Relationship 112
4.4. Covenant Tradition (Hosea 2:16-23 [MT 18-25]) 115
4.4.1. Translation on Hosea 2:16-23 116
4.4.2. Text Critical Comments on Hosea 2:16-23 116
4.4.3. Form Critical Comments on Hosea 2:16-23 119
4.4.4. Tradition and Theological Comments in the Light of Tripartite Relationship 120
4.5. Covenant Tradition (Hosea 4:1-3) 122
4.5.1. Translation on Hosea 4:1-3 122
4.5.2. Text Critical Comments on Hosea 4:1-3 123
4.5.3. Form Critical Comments on Hosea 4:1-3 124
4.5.4. Tradition and Theological Comments in the Light of Tripartite Relationship 126
4.6. Covenant Tradition (Hosea 5:8-11) 128
4.6.1. Translation on Hosea 5:8-11 129
4.6.2. Text Critical Comments on Hosea 5:8-11 129
4.6.3. Form Critical Comments on Hosea 5:8-11 132
4.6.4. Tradition and Theological Comments in the Light of Tripartite Relationship 134
4.7. Covenant, Torah and Exodus Traditions (Hosea 8:9-13) 137
4.7.1. Translation on Hosea 8:9-13 138
4.7.2. Text Critical Comments on Hosea 8:9-13 138
4.7.3. Form Critical Comments on Hosea 8:9-13 141
4.7.4. Tradition and Theological Comments in the Light of Tripartite Relationship 142
4.8. Covenant-Torah Tradition (Hosea 10:13b-15) 145
4.8.1. Translation on Hosea 10:13b-15 146
4.8.2. Text Critical Comments on Hosea 10:13b-15 146

4.8.3. Form Critical Comments on Hosea 10:13b-15 147
4.8.4. Tradition and Theological Comments in the Light of Tripartite Relationship 148
4.9. Covenant Tradition (Hosea 14:4-7 [MT. 14:5-8]) 150
4.9.1. Translation on Hosea 14:4-7 151
4.9.2. Text Critical Comments on Hosea 14:4-7 151
4.9.3. Form Critical Comments on Hosea 14:4-7 153
4.9.4. Tradition and Theological Comments in the Light of the Tripartite Relationship 154
4.10. Hosea's Theology of Land 155

Chapter 5: The Understanding of Land in the Book of Micah 161
5.1. Micah, the Prophet 161
5.2. Historical Context of Micah 162
5.2.1. Political Context 162
5.2.2. Socioeconomic Context 163
5.2.3. Religious Context 164
5.3. Theophany Tradition (Micah 1:2-7) 164
5.3.1. Translation on Micah 1:2-7 165
5.3.2. Text Critical Comments on Micah 1:2-7 165
5.3.3. Form Critical Comments on Micah 1:2-7 167
5.3.4. Tradition and Theological Comments in the Light of Tripartite Relationship 168
5.4. Sinai Covenant Tradition (Micah 2:1-5) 172
5.4.1. Translation on Micah 2:1-5 172
5.4.2. Text Critical Comments on Micah 2:1-5 172
5.4.3. Form Critical Comments on Micah 2:1-5 175
5.4.4. Tradition and Theological Comments on Tripartite Relationship 177
5.5. Zion Tradition (Micah 3:9-12) 179
5.5.1. Translation on Micah 3:9-12 179
5.5.2. Text Critical Comments on Micah 3:9-12 180
5.5.3. Form Critical Comments on Micah 3:9-12 182
5.5.4. Tradition and Theological Comments in the Light of Tripartite Relationship 184
5.6. Torah-Zion Tradition (Micah 4:1-5) 186
5.6.1. Translation on Micah 4:1-5 187
5.6.2. Text Critical Comments on Micah 4:1-5 187
5.6.3. Form Critical Comments on Micah 4:1-5 189
5.6.4. Tradition and Theological Comments in the Light of Tripartite Relationship 191
5.7. Zion Tradition (Micah 4:11-13) 194
5.7.1. Translation on Micah 4:11-13 194

5.7.2. Text Critical Comments on Micah 4:11-13 194
5.7.3. Form Critical Comments on Micah 4:11-13 196
5.7.4. Tradition and Theological Comments in the Light of Tripartite Relationship 197
5.8. Zion and Exodus Traditions (Micah 7:8-20) 200
5.8.1. Translation on Micah 7:8-20 200
5.8.2. Text Critical Comments on Micah 7:8-20 201
5.8.3. Tradition and Theological Comments in the Light of Tripartite Relationship 209
5.9. Micah's Theology of Land 213

Chapter 6: The Understanding of Land in the Book of Isaiah (Chs 1-39) 219
6.1. Isaiah, the Prophet 219
6.2. Historical Context of Isaiah's Period 219
6.2.1. Political Context 220
6.2.2. Socioeconomic Context 221
6.2.3. Religious Context 222
6.3. Authorship Debate 223
6.4. Covenant and Remnant Traditions (Isaiah 1:4-9) 224
6.4.1. Translation on Isaiah 1:4-9 224
6.4.2. Text Critical Comments on Isaiah 1:4-9 225
6.4.3. Form Critical Comments on Isaiah 1:4-9 227
6.4.4. Tradition and Theological Comments in the Light of Tripartite Relationship 229
6.5. Torah Tradition (Is. 2:5-9) 232
6.5.1. Translation on Is. 2:5-9 232
6.5.2. Text Critical Comments on Is. 2:5-9 232
6.5.3. Form Critical Comments on Is. 2:5-9 234
6.5.4. Tradition and Theological Comments in the Light of Tripartite Relationship 235
6.6. Covenant Tradition (Is. 3:12-15) 237
6.6.1. Translation on Is. 3:12-15 238
6.6.2. Text Critical Comments on Is. 3:12-15 238
6.6.3. Form Critical Comments on Is. 3:12-15 239
6.6.4. Tradition and Theological Comments in the Light of Tripartite Relationship 241
6.7. Covenant Tradition (Isaiah 5:1-7) 243
6.7.1. Translation (Isaiah 5:1-7) 243
6.7.2. Text Critical Comments on Isaiah 5:1-7 244
6.7.3. Form Critical Comments on Isaiah 5:1-7 246
6.7.4. Tradition and Theological Comments in the Light of Tripartite Relationship 248
6.8. Remnant and Creation Traditions (Isaiah 5:8-10) 251

6.8.1. Translation on Isaiah 5:8-10 252
6.8.2. Text Critical Comments on Isaiah 5:8-10 252
6.8.3. Form Critical Comments on Isaiah 5:8-10 253
6.8.4. Tradition and Theological Comments in the Light of Tripartite Relationship 253
6.9. Remnant Tradition (Isaiah 11:11-12) 257
6.9.1. Translation on Isaiah 11:11-12 257
6.9.2. Text Critical Comments on Isaiah 11:11-12 257
6.9.3. Form Critical Comments on Isaiah 11:11-12 259
6.9.4. Tradition and Theological Comments in the Light of Tripartite Relationship 260
6.10. Zion Tradition (Isaiah 33:7-12) 262
6.10.1. Translation on Isaiah 33:7-12 262
6.10.2. Text Critical Comments on Isaiah 33:7-12 262
6.10.3. Form Critical Comments on Isaiah 33:7-12 264
6.10.4. Tradition and Theological Comments in the Light of Tripartite Relationship 265
6.11. Isaiah's Theology of Land 268

Chapter 7: Conclusion: Theology of Land in the Eighth Century Prophets 273
7.1. Meaning of Land 273
7.2. Traditions and Tripartite Relationship 273
7.2.1. Brotherhood Tradition 274
7.2.2. Kinship Tradition 274
7.2.3. Torah Tradition 274
7.2.4. Exodus Tradition 275
7.2.5. Covenant Tradition 276
7.2.6. Theophany Tradition 278
7.2.7. Creation Tradition 279
7.2.8. Zion Tradition 280
7.2.9. Remnant Tradition 281
7.3. Conclusion 282
7.4. Role of Churches today 283

Bibliography 285