Contents

Foreword ix
Preface xi
Abbreviations xiii

Introduction 1

Chapter 1: Formative Judaism and Early Christian Communities after 70 CE: Situating the Context of the Johannine Community 7

Introduction 7
1.1. Events Leading to the First Jewish Revolt (66 – 73 CE) 8
1.1.1. Political, Socio-Economic and Religious Factors 9
1.1.2. Sectarianism in Judaism 13
1.1.3. Other Movements in Palestine 25
1.2. The Great Revolt (66-73 CE) and the Destruction of the Jerusalem Temple 29
1.2.1. Conflict of Interests between Moderates and Radicals 30
1.2.2. Intervention of Gallus 31
1.2.3. Destruction of Jerusalem 32
1.2.4. Capture of Masada 34
1.3. Fall Out of the Destruction of Jerusalem and the Temple 35
1.3.1. Political Condition 35
1.3.2. Economic Condition 36
1.3.3. Social Condition 36
1.3.4. Religious Condition 37
1.4. Towards Establishing their Respective Identities: Formative Judaism and Early Christian Communities 40
1.4.1. Synagogue Judaism 40
1.4.2. Formative Judaism 41
1.5. Formative Judaism and Jewish-Christian Relationship in the Post 70 CE 49

1.5.1. Diversity and Conflict 49
1.5.2. The Parting of the Ways between Christianity and Judaism 72
1.5.3. Birkat ha-Minim and the Parting of the Ways Model: An Evaluation 78
Conclusion 79

Chapter 2: The Trajectory of the Johannine Community 81
Introduction 81
2.1. Pointers to the Johannine Community in the FG 82
2.1.1. Objections to the Johannine Community Hypothesis 82
2.1.2. In Support of the Johannine Community Hypothesis 88
2.1.3. Evidence for the Johannine Community in the FG 90
2.2. A Critical Survey of the Reconstructions of the Johannine Community History 95
2.2.1. J. Louis Martyn 95
2.2.2. Raymond E. Brown 100
2.2.3. John Painter 104
2.2.4. R. Alan Culpepper 105
2.2.5. Oscar Cullmann 106
2.2.6. Martinus C. de Boer 108
2.2.7. Celestino G. Lingad 110
2.2.8. Johannine Community Reconstructions: An Assessment 110
2.3. Possible Johannine Community Reconstruction 112
2.3.1. The Contours of the Johannine Community 112
2.3.2. The BD and the Johannine Community 120
Conclusion 124

Chapter 3: An Exegetical Study of John 20: The Johannine Disclosure of Identity and Mission 125
Introduction 125
3.1. Resurrection in Paul and Synoptics 125
3.1.1. Resurrection in Paul 126
3.1.2. Resurrection in the Synoptics 127
3.2. Passion and Resurrection in the FG 133
3.2.1. The Passion of Jesus in the FG 133
3.2.2. The Place of Resurrection in the FG 135
3.3. John 20: A Disclosure of Identity and Mission 138
3.3.1. Context of John 20 138
3.3.2. Structure 140
3.3.3. John 20:1-10: Disclosure of the Empty Tomb 143

3.3.4. John 20:11-18: Disclosure of the Son's Identity in the Father 162
3.3.5. John 20:19-23: Disclosure of Mission in Identity 183
3.3.6. John 20:24-31: Disclosure of the Lord's Identity to the Community 200
Conclusion 212

Chapter 4: John 20: Paradigm of the Johannine Community's Identity and Mission 215
Introduction 215
4.1. Context of the Johannine Community 215
4.1.1. Defining the Context of the Johannine Community 218
4.1.2. Remembrance and Context 223
4.2. Models of Identity and Mission 224
4.2.1. van der Watt: Family of the King and Dynamics of Metaphor in the Gospel According to John 224
4.2.2. Mary Cole: God Dwells with Us and Dwelling in the Household of God 228
4.3. Paradigm of the Johannine Community's Identity and Mission: Family of God and Witness 232
4.3.1. Family in the First Century CE 233
4.3.2. Family of God in the FG: Identity of the Johannine Community 246
4.3.3. Mission in the FG: Witness of the Johannine Community 271
Conclusion 290

Conclusion 293

Bibliography 301