

Contents

Foreword	xi
Acknowledgement	xv
List of Abbreviations	xvii
Chapter 1: Introduction	1
1.1. Rationale for the Research Work	1
1.2. Research Setting	4
1.3. The Objectives and Importance of the Research	5
1.4. Literature Review	8
1.4.1. Ecumenical Texts	8
1.4.2. Communication Texts	10
1.5. Theoretical Framework of the Research	11
1.5.1. Theoretical Understanding of Folk Dance as Communication	11
1.5.2. Theological Backdrop of Folk Dance and Ecumenism	13
1.5.3. Theoretical Concept of Ecumenism	14
1.6. An Overview of the Ecumenical Initiatives in North East India	16
1.7. Dance in the Old Testament	18
1.8. Dance in the New Testament	20
1.9. Method and Scope of the Research	21
a) Participant Observation	22
b) In-Depth Interview	23
1.10. Concluding Remarks	24
Chapter 2: Churches and Denominationalism	25
2.1. A Brief Historical Overview of the Growth of Different Churches in Nagaland	25
2.1.1. Churches and their Ecclesial Activities	27
2.1.2. Churches' Public Relations and their Communication Activities	28
i. Exclusive Denominational Communication	29

ii. Lack of Ecumenical Thoughts in Christian Publications	30
iii. Folk Media as Participatory Communication	30
2.1.3. The Ground Realities of Denominationalism among Naga Churches	30
i. Denominational Structure	31
ii. Doctrinal Differences	32
iii. Cultural Differences	32
iv. The Problem of Not Understanding Others	33
2.2. Relationship among Different Churches in Nagaland	34
2.2.1. Present Scenario of Ecumenical Relationship among the Churches in Nagaland	34
2.2.2. Ecumenism among Christians of Different Denominations: Conceptual Difficulties	35
2.2.3. Ecumenism and Religious Identity	36
i. Unity in Diversity	36
2.2.4. Tribal Solidarity and Denominationalism	37
i. Denominational Identity among Different Churches	38
2.3. Church Initiatives of Ecumenism in Recent Years	39
2.3.1. Church Leadership	39
i. Church Leadership towards Peace and Justice	40
ii. Church Leadership on Common Witness	40
2.3.2. Lay Leadership	41
2.3.3. Lay Participation	42
i. Participation in Worship	42
a. Participation through Music and Songs	43
b. Participation through Dance	43
c. Participation through Drama	44
ii. Participation through Service	44
a. Participation through Educational Ministry	45
b. Participation in People's Health Service	45
c. Participation for Justice and Development	46
2.3.4. Towards an Ecumenical Communion of Churches	46
2.4. Concluding Remarks	48
Chapter 3: Theological Understanding of Ecumenism     and Ecumenical Communication	49
3.1. The Meaning of 'Ecumenism'	49
3.2. Theological Understanding of Ecumenism	50
3.2.1. Theological Insights of Ecumenism	51
i. Theology of Ecumenism	52
3.2.2. Communicating Towards the Unity of the Church	52

i. Dialogue as Ecumenism	53
ii. Bilateral Dialogue	54
iii. Multilateral Dialogue	54
3.2.3. Communicating Towards Wider Ecumenism	55
i. Dialogical Communication in a Multi-Religious Context	55
ii. Communicating Towards Development and Social Justice	56
a. Ecumenism as Promoting Economic Justice and Progress	57
b. Ecumenism as Promoting Ecological Justice	57
c. Ecumenism as Promoting Justice for Women	58
d. Ecumenism as Promoting Peace and Justice	59
3.3. Theological Understanding of Ecumenical Communication	60
3.3.1. Ecumenical Communication: A Life-long Task of all Christians	61
3.3.2. Ecumenical Communication Towards Communion and Integrity	61
3.3.3. Ecumenical Communication Towards Unity and Service	62
i. Ecumenical Communication as Solidarity with Others	62
ii. Ecumenical Communication as Self-giving and as Sacrifice	63
3.3.4. Mass Media and Ecumenical Communication	63
3.3.5. Language as Ecumenical Communication	64
3.4. Relationship between Ecumenism and Culture	64
3.4.1. Ecumenical Communication and Cultural Performances	66
3.4.2. Ecumenical Characteristic in Cultural Performances	67
i. Unity and Solidarity	67
ii. Fellowship and Sharing	68
iii. Cooperation Towards Justice and Development	68
iv. Dialogical Communication	69
3.5. WCC's Ecumenical Concerns on Ecumenism and Culture	70
3.6. Theoretical Understanding of Dance	71
3.7. Concluding Remarks	74
Chapter 4: Naga Folk Dance as a Medium of Communication	77
4.1. Concept of Dance	77
4.1.1. Relationship between Dance and Music	79
4.1.2. Dance as a Symbolic Ritual	82
4.2. The Basic Understanding of Dance in Naga Culture	83
4.2.1. Folk Dance as Non-Material Culture	83
4.2.2. Functions of Folk Dance	85

i. Psychological Function	85
ii. Social Function	86
iii. Religious Function	87
iv. Political Function	87
v. Educational Function	88
4.2.3. The Place of Folk Dances in Naga Festivals	89
4.2.4. The Different Types and the Meaning of Naga Folk Dances	90
i. Festival Dance	91
ii. War Dance	93
iii. Peace-Making Dance	94
iv. Feast of Merit Dance	94
v. Mimetic Dance	95
vi. Marriage Dance	97
vii. Labour Dance	97
viii. Community Hall Dedication Dance	98
ix. Log Drum Dedication Dance	98
x. Tug of War Dance	99
xi. Group Dance	99
xii. Mourning Dance	99
4.3. Theoretical Understanding of Naga Folk Dance	100
4.3.1. Anthropological Understanding of Naga Folk Dance	101
4.3.2. Naga Folk Dance as Community Dance	102
4.3.3. Vertical and Horizontal Dimensions of Naga Folk Dance	103
4.3.4. Naga Folk Dance as Communication	105
i. Naga Folk Dance as a Symbolic Art Form	106
4.3.5. Naga Folk Dances as Participatory Communication	107
4.3.6. Ritual Dance of Communication	108
4.3.7. Naga Folk Dance as Medium of Social Interaction	110
4.4. Concluding Remarks	111
Chapter 5: Folk Dance for the Promotion of Ecumenical Sphere with Special Reference to Ao Naga Moatsu Festival: A Social Anthropological Study	113
5.1. Moatsu Festival: A Social Anthropological Study	114
5.1.1. Format of Data Gathering Procedure	114
5.1.2. Data-Processing and Analysis	115
5.2. Role of People in Moatsu Festival	115
5.2.1. Folk Dance towards Community Participation	116
5.2.2. Inter-village and Inter-tribal Representations	117
5.3. Ao Naga Folk Dance as the People-Centered Communication for the Promotion of Ecumenical Relationship	118
5.3.1. Naga Folk Dance Towards a Common Ecumenical Sphere	118

5.3.2.	Initiating Contact and Sharing among the People	119
5.3.3.	Naga Folk Dance Towards Promoting Relationship	120
5.3.4.	Naga Folk Dance Promoting Towards Education and Learning	121
5.3.5.	Naga Folk Dance Towards Communal Harmony	122
5.3.6.	Naga Folk Dance Towards Community Development	122
5.4.	Folk Dance for the Promotion of Ecumenism	123
5.4.1.	Folk Dance Towards Ecumenism Outside the Church	123
5.4.2.	Folk Dance Towards Ecumenism in the Church	124
5.5.	Findings and Discussion	125
5.6.	Concluding Remarks	126
Chapter 6:	Folk Dance as Ecumenical Communication	129
	in the Church and Society
6.1.	Theological Understanding of Folk Dance as Ecumenical Communication	129
6.1.1.	Folk Dance as the Expression of Christian Faith	132
6.1.2.	Folk Dance Towards Christian Participation	133
6.2.	Ecumenical Communication as Christian Imperative	134
6.2.1.	Folk Dance in Christian Worship	135
	i. The Celebration of Folk Dance as Ecumenical Worship	137
	ii. Community Dance as Ecumenical Communication	137
	iii. Promoting Communitarian Identity and Values Among the People	139
	iv. Folk Dance as Promoting People's Spirituality	140
	v. Folk Dance as Promoting Ethical Values in Society	141
6.3.	Implications of the Study	141
6.3.1.	Facilitating the Church's Recognition of Ecumenical Sphere in the Folk Dance	141
6.3.2.	Encouraging a Wider Ecumenical Awareness on Common Interests	142
6.3.3.	Enhancing the Role of the People in the Ecumenical Movement	142
6.3.4.	Promoting Folk Dance in the New Media Age	143
6.4.	Recommendations Towards Ecumenical Communication	144
6.4.1.	To Promote People-Based Indigenous Communications Towards Ecumenical Relations	144
6.4.2.	To Promote Dialogical Communication between Christians of Different Denominations	145
6.4.3.	To Communicate Social Justice and bring about Communitarian Communication	146

6.4.4. To Establish an Institute for the Study and Promotion of Folk Dance	147
6.4.5. Conduct a Workshop and Education Seminar	147
6.4.6. Scope for Future Research	147
6.5. Concluding Remarks	148
Appendices	149
Appendix I. A. Data Gathering Procedure for Participant Observation	149
Appendix II: A. Names of the Interviewees taken for the In-depth Interview	151
B. The types of questions asked during the In-depth Interview	152
Appendix III: Hymn-Lord of the Dance by Sydney Carter	153
Appendix IV: Photos of Naga Folk Dancing Troupes During the Moatsu Festival	155
References	159