

Contents

Foreword	xi
Preface	xiii
List of Abbreviations	xv
Chapter 1: Introduction	1
1.1. The Problem	1
1.2. Elaboration of the Problem	1
1.2.1. Cosmic Christology	2
1.2.2. Matthean Community	4
1.2.3. Son of God in Matthew's Gospel	6
1.2.4. Other Christological Titles in Matthew's Gospel	9
1.2.5. Cosmic Christology in Matthew's Gospel	10
1.2.6. Eco-Theology for the Mizos	11
1.3. Previous Research	13
1.4. Method of Study	16
1.4.1. Cultural Intertextuality	16
1.4.2. Sociological Criticism	17
1.4.3. Rhetorical Approach	18
1.4.4. Postcolonial Biblical Criticism	21
1.5. Purpose of Research	22
1.6. Scope and Limitation	23
1.7. Tentative Outline	23
Chapter 2: Socio-Historical Context of Matthew's Gospel	25
2.1. Introduction	25
2.2. Author	26
2.3. Date	30
2.4. Place of Writing	33
2.5. Matthean Community	34
2.5.1. The Matthean Community in Relation to Formative Judaism	37

2.5.2. The Crowds	38
2.5.3. Socio-Economic Status	42
2.5.4. Social and Religious Climate	44
2.5.5. Instruction for Discipleship in the Community	45
2.5.6. Mission in Matthean Community	46
2.6. Geography in Matthew's Gospel	47
2.6.1. Significance of Topography in Literary Design of Matthew's Gospel	51
2.6.2. The Term "Place" in Matthew's Gospel	53
2.7. The Wandering Charismatics: In Relation with Miracles	55
2.8. Summary	57
Chapter 3: Nature Miracles in Ancient Traditions	59
3.1. Introduction	59
3.2. Brief Re-visit to the Cause of the Rejection of Nature Miracles	59
3.3. Attempts for the Classifications of Biblical Miracle Stories	63
3.3.1. Arthur C. Headlam	63
3.3.2. Brooke Foss Westcott	64
3.3.3. T. H. Wright	64
3.3.4. G. J. Jordan	65
3.3.5. David Friedrich Strauss	65
3.3.6. Rudolf Bultmann	66
3.3.7. Reginald H. Fuller	68
3.3.8. Jesus Seminar	69
3.3.9. Gerd Theissen	71
3.3.9.1. Classification by Function	71
3.3.9.2. Classification by Composition	71
3.3.9.3. Classification by Subject and Object	73
3.3.10. Graham H. Twelftree	74
3.4. God, Nature and Miracle within the Cosmological Worldview of the Old Testament Writers	75
3.4.1. Sign, Wonder, and Marvel	77
3.4.2. Mapping the Framework of the Old Testament's Worldview	79
3.4.2.1. Cause-and-Effect Nexus as Providence	80
3.4.2.2. Nature as Autonomous	81
3.5. God, Nature and Miracle within the Cosmological Worldview of Graeco-Roman Writers	84
3.5.1. Nature and God	85
3.5.2. Nature Miracles of Heroes and Gods	86
3.6. God, Nature and Miracle within the Cosmological Worldview of Second Temple Period Writers	87

3.6.1. Rabbinic Literature	88
3.6.2. Wisdom Literature	92
3.6.2.1. Wisdom of Solomon	93
3.6.2.2. The Book of Sirach	94
3.6.3. Early Enochic Writings and the Book of Jubilees	96
3.6.3.1. Early Enochic Writings (1 Enoch)	97
3.6.3.2. The Book of Jubilees	102
3.7. Nature Miracles within the Cosmological Worldview of the New Testament Writers	106
3.8. Summary	107
Chapter 4: Cosmic Christology in Other New Testament Writings	109
4.1. Introduction	109
4.2. Synoptic Gospels	109
4.3. Johannine Writings	113
4.4. Pauline Writings	119
4.5. Deutero Pauline Writings	122
4.6. Hebrews	127
4.7. Summary	131
Chapter 5: Cosmo-Christological Framework	135
5.1. Introduction	135
5.2. Proclamation and Christology	135
5.3. Jesus' World – Milieu, Archaeology and Christology	136
5.4. Infancy Narratives and Christology	140
5.4.1. Davidic Messiahship	141
5.4.2. Saviour	143
5.5. Baptism of Jesus and Christology	144
5.6. Ministry of Jesus and Christology	146
5.7. Jesus' Death and Resurrection and Christology	148
5.8. Miracles and Christology	150
5.9. Geopolitics and Christology	153
5.10. Framework for Cosmic Christology in Matthew's Gospel: Contextual and Ecological Concerns	156
5.10.1. Cosmic Christology	158
5.10.2. Joining of Traditions in Paul's Thought and the Development of Cosmic Christology in Later New Testament Writings	163
5.10.3. Wisdom Christology in Matthew's Gospel	168
5.10.4. Ecological Christology	169
5.10.5. Contextual Christology	171
5.10.6. Contextual Tribal Christology in Mizoram	174
5.11. Summary	183

Chapter 6: Exegesis of Select Passages	185
6.1. Introduction	185
6.2. Nature Miracles and Matthew's Cosmological Worldview	186
6.3. The Stilling of the Storm (8:23-27)	192
6.3.1. Narrative Framework	192
6.3.2. Analysis of the Passage	196
6.3.3. Cosmic Christology in the Passage	207
6.3.4. The Rhetorical Purpose of the Passage	208
6.4. The Feeding of the Multitudes (14:13-21)	211
6.4.1. Narrative Framework	211
6.4.2. Analysis of the Passage	213
6.4.3. Cosmic Christology in the Passage	224
6.4.4. The Rhetorical Purpose of the Passage	226
6.5. The Walking on the Water (14:22-33)	228
6.5.1. Narrative Framework	228
6.5.2. Analysis of the Passage	230
6.5.3. Cosmic Christology in the Passage	238
6.5.4. The Rhetorical Purpose of the Passage	242
6.6. Application for Eco-Theology	243
6.7. Summary	246
Chapter 7: Nature Miracles and Cosmic Christology in Matthew:     Contextual Implication for Theology of Nature	249
7.1. Introduction	249
7.2. Miracles and Christology in Matthew's Gospel	250
7.3. Cosmology and Christology in Matthew's Gospel	252
7.4. Nature Miracles as basis for Cosmic Christology in Matthew's Gospel	254
7.5. Traditional Religious Cosmology of the Mizos and Theology of Nature	258
7.6. Summary	262
General Conclusion	263
Bibliography	267