

Contents

Foreword	xi
Preface	xv
Abbreviation	xvii
General Introduction	xix
Chapter 1: MacIntyre's Moral Landscape and the Nature of Moral Disagreements	1
1.1. Exploring Normative Foundation	2
1.2. Situating MacIntyre	4
1.2.1. Encounter with Marxism	4
1.2.2. MacIntyre's Ethical Enquiry	5
1.3. MacIntyre's Diagnosis of the Enlightenment Philosophy	8
1.3.1. Prominence of Reason	10
1.3.2. The Advance of Scientific Method	12
1.3.3. The Rise of Liberal Individualism	13
1.3.4. The Rejection of Moral Tradition	15
1.3.5. Moral Pluralism	15
1.3.6. The Nihilism	16
1.4. MacIntyre's Evaluation of Prominent Ethical Frameworks	17
1.4.1. The Primacy of Consequentialism	18
1.4.2. Deontological Ethics	20
1.4.3. Against Emotivism	21
1.4.4. Opposing Intuitionism	23
1.4.5. Opposing Prescriptivism	24
1.5. Virtue Ethics	25
Chapter 2: Exploring Virtue Ethics and the Concept of Practice	27
2.1. A Call for Virtue Ethics	28
2.1.1. The Origin and Development of Virtue	28
2.1.2. The Concept of Virtue Ethics	31
2.1.3. Aristotelian Perspective on Virtue	33

2.1.3.1. Rationale of Virtue	35
2.1.3.2. Practice	36
2.2. Revival of Virtue Ethics	37
2.2.1. Anscombe's Impact	38
2.2.2. MacIntyre's Reading of Aristotle	40
2.3. MacIntyre's Account of Virtue	42
2.3.1. A Turn to the Past	46
2.3.2. Teleological Framework	48
2.3.3. Acquiring the Virtues	51
2.3.4. The Departure of MacIntyre from Aristotle	51
2.3.5. The Social Teleology	54
2.4. MacIntyre's Account of Practices	55
2.4.1. Definition of Practice	57
2.4.2. Practice as an Interrelated Activity	59
2.4.3. External Good	61
2.4.4. Internal Good	61
2.4.5. Practices and Social Institutions	63
2.5. Virtue in Practice	65
Chapter 3: Narrative Unity of Human Life and Tradition	69
3.1. MacIntyre's Account of Narrative	70
3.1.1. Narrative Self	73
3.1.2. Coherence of Life Narratives	77
3.1.3. The Narrative Quest	78
3.1.4. Narrative and Human Action	80
3.2. MacIntyre's Account of Tradition	82
3.2.1. Moral Rationality in Tradition	85
3.2.2. The Link Between Tradition and Ethical Reason	87
3.2.2.1. Beyond Encyclopedia and Genealogy	89
3.2.2.2. Progress of Rationality and Tradition	91
3.2.3. Tradition-Constituted and Tradition-Constitutive Rationality	93
3.2.4. Tradition Unveiled in its Continuous Narrative	96
3.3. MacIntyre's Perspective on Community	98
3.3.1. Community and Moral Formation	102
3.3.2. The Role of Institutions in Sustaining Practices and Virtues	104
3.3.3. Community and Rational Enquiry	105
3.4. Community and the Virtues	107
3.5. The Role of Virtue in Harmonising Human Life	110
Chapter 4: Ethical Vision of Human Emancipation	113
4.1. MacIntyre's Conception of Human Nature	113
4.1.1. Human Nature and Natural Law	114
4.1.2. Human Nature and Good	118
4.1.3. Modern Institutions Undermine Human Agency	119

4.1.4. Ethical Emancipation	121
4.1.5. MacIntyre's Holistic Perspective	124
4.2. MacIntyre's Account of the Common Good	127
4.2.1. The Ground for the Common Good	128
4.2.2. Restoring the Ontological Priority of the Good	131
4.2.3. A Character-Centric Approach	133
4.2.4. Human Dependence	135
4.3. The Good as a Unifying Concept	136
4.4. MacIntyre's Vision of Eudaimonia	139
4.4.1. Teleology and the Good Life	141
4.4.2. Self-Integrated Reasoning and Accountability	143
4.4.3. MacIntyre's Naturalistic Framework	147
4.5. Practical Judgment and Virtue Ethics	151
4.6. Dialogue as the Essential Pathway to Human Flourishing	153
4.7. Dialogical Virtue Ethics	157
4.7.1. Dialogical Engagement with the Visionaries	159
4.7.2. Virtuous Intended Actions	162
4.7.3. The Pursuit of Truth in Dialogue	163
4.7.4. MacIntyre's Vision for Human Flourishing	165
4.8. Ethics of Enquiry and Ethics of Exchange	168
Chapter 5: Overcoming Challenges and Flourishing through Virtue	171
5.1. Particularism and Universalism in MacIntyre's Philosophy	171
5.1.1. Particularism in MacIntyre's Thought	172
5.1.2. Universalism in MacIntyre's Thought	174
5.2. Pluralism and Conflict	175
5.3. Moral Disagreement and Dialogue	178
5.4. Challenges to MacIntyre's Virtue Ethics	181
5.5. Tradition as Objective Framework to Relativistic Critiques	187
5.6. Challenging MacIntyre's Ethical Vision	191
5.7. Emancipation through MacIntyre's Virtue Ethics	199
5.7.1. Educational Perspectives and Practices	199
5.7.2. Emancipatory Politics	201
5.7.3. Virtue, Technology and Digital Media	203
5.7.4. Ecological Concerns	205
General Conclusion	211
Bibliography	231
Testimonials	269