

Contents

Foreword	xi
Preface	xiii
1. A General Introduction to the Apocalyptic Literature	1
The Apocalyptic Genre	1
Classification of Apocalyptic Literature	2
Origin and Development of Apocalyptic Thought	3
Motifs of Apocalypticism	4
Some Peculiar Features of Apocalyptic Literature	5
2. A Paradigm for Reading Revelation	11
Christian Appropriation of Apocalyptic Hope	11
A Christian Apocalypse: Background and Setting	14
An Apocalypse, a Prophecy and a Letter	16
Authorship	19
Date	19
Socio-Political Context of Revelation	22
Purpose	27
Different Approaches to the Apocalypse of John	27
Sequence of Events or Recurring Visions?	30
Reading Revelation as a Counter-Imperial Script	31
Reading Revelation as Prophetic Imagination	33
Reading Revelation in the Indian Context of Hindutva	35
3. Through the Lens of John (Revelation 1:1-20)	41
Fostering Alternative Imagination	41
A King Unlike the Caesar	45
I, John, Your Brother	50
Kingdom and Priests: In the Presence of Enemies	55

4. Prophetic Voices for and Against the Church (Revelation 2:1–3:22)	59
Different Churches, Different Crises	60
Embraced amidst Betrayals	61
Christ and Caesar Aren't Brothers	66
“No Problem” is the Problem	70
To the Conquerors	73
5. Gods of Empire and God the Creator (Revelation 4:1-11)	77
A Shift in Visions	77
Worship of the Creator by the Creation	78
Static Gods versus the Passionate God	82
Singing a Different Song	84
6. Worthy is the Lamb (Revelation 5:1–8:5)	87
Empire's Propaganda is not “the Reality”	87
Lamb as the Image for God	90
Sing unto the Lord a New Song	96
When Disturbing Realities Penetrate through Dominant Ideology	102
The Lamb Shall Be their Shepherd	108
Silence and Prayers	113
7. The Creator Confronts the Destroyers (Revelation 8:6–11:19)	117
God isn't on the Side of Pharaoh	117
Prophetic Confrontation against the Dark Powers	123
The Empire isn't the Determinant of History	129
God Handles the End	133
8. The Dilemma of Allegiance (Revelation 12:1–15:4)	135
The Paradox of Already and Not Yet	136
Even the Beast Seems Amazing	142
Others are not Allowed	151
Allegiance to the Lamb	155
Who Will Not Fear the Lord?	159
9. The Shame of the Empire (Revelation 15:5–20:15)	165
Empires Cannot Claim Eternity	165
Filthiness and Ungodliness	170
Where is your Glory?	176
God Reigns: the Climax of History	181

10. In the End, God Creates (Revelation 21–22)	187
Marriage of Heaven and Earth	187
No More Sea	191
Nations Walk by its Light	192
Come, Jesus!	197
Conclusion	201
Bibliography	205