

Contents

Foreword	xiii
Prologue	xv
Preface	xix
Prelude to the Study	xxi
Abbreviations	xxv
General Introduction	1
Chapter 1: A Critical Survey of Former Studies on the Overall Purpose, Literary form and the Theological Views on ‘Righteousness of God’ in Romans	9
1. Introduction	9
1.1. The Purpose of Romans	12
1.2. The Literary form of Romans	19
1.3. Righteousness of God in Romans: An Assessment of the Views of Modern Scholars	21
1.3.1. Different Views on Δικαιοσύνη τοῦ θεοῦ	22
1.3.1.1. Theocentric View of Δικαιοσύνη τοῦ θεοῦ	23
1.3.1.2. Anthropocentric View of Δικαιοσύνη τοῦ θεοῦ	25
1.3.1.3. Ecumenical View of Δικαιοσύνη τοῦ θεοῦ	26
1.3.1.4. Apocalyptic-universal-cosmic View of Δικαιοσύνη θεοῦ	28
1.3.1.5. Covenantal-relational View of Δικαιοσύνη τοῦ θεοῦ	29
1.3.1.6. Socio-politico-liberative View of Δικαιοσύνη τοῦ θεοῦ	31
1.3.2. Debate Concerning the Effect of Δικαιοῦν	31
1.3.3. Debate on the Notion of Faith (πίστις)	34
1.3.4. Conclusions	35

1.4. The Original Greek Text, the Text-Critical Notes and the English Translation	37
1.5. The Delimitation of the Text	41
1.5.1. Internal Coherence of the Text	41
1.5.1.1. Vocabulary	41
1.5.1.2. The Rhetorical Movement of the Unit	42
1.5.2. The Unit's Separateness from the Preceding and the Succeeding Texts	43
1.5.3. The Unit's Relationship with the Preceding and the Succeeding Texts	44
1.6. Conclusion of the Chapter	45
Chapter 2: Rhetorics, Rhetorical Structure and the Contexts of the Rhetorical Unit of Rom 3:21-31	47
2. Introduction	47
2.1. Paul and Rhetorical Criticism	48
2.1.1. Basic Notions of Rhetorical Criticism	48
2.1.2. Three Species of Rhetorics	51
2.1.3. The Relationship between Rhetorical Theory and Pauline Letters	52
2.1.4. Romans – Epideictic Rhetoric or Deliberative Rhetoric?	53
2.2. The Place of the Rhetorical Unit in the Rhetorical Structure of Romans	56
2.2.1. The Proposed Structures of Rom 3:21-31	57
2.2.1.1. Thematic Structures	57
2.2.1.2. Rhetorical Structures	58
2.2.1.3. The Rhetorical Structure that We Follow in this Book	63
2.3. The Contexts of the Rhetorical Unit	67
2.3.1. The Literary Context	67
2.3.1.1. The Introduction of the Letter	68
2.3.1.1.1. The Prescript of Romans (1:1-7)	68
2.3.1.1.2. The Prayer (1:8-10)	80
2.3.1.1.3. Opening of the Body of the Letter (1:11-15)	81
2.3.1.2. The Conclusion of the Letter (15:14-16:27)	84
2.3.1.2.1. The Apostolic Parousia (15:14-33)	84
2.3.1.2.2. Greetings, Final Exhortation and Doxology (16:1-27)	87
2.3.2. Historical Context	90

2.3.2.1. The Historical Situation of Roman Christians	91
2.3.2.2. The Historical Situation of Paul	97
2.3.3. Rhetorical Context	98
2.3.3.1. Propositio (1:16-17)	99
2.3.3.2. Probatio I (1:18-3:20)	103
2.3.3.2.1. The Gentile World under the Power of Sin (1:18-32)	105
2.3.3.2.2. The Jewish World under the Power of Sin (2:1-3:20)	109
2.3.4. Theological Context	115
2.4. Conclusion of the Chapter	117
Chapter 3: Exegetical and Rhetorical Analysis of Rom 3:21-31	119
3. Introduction	119
3.1. Structural Analysis of the Rhetorical Unit (3:21-31)	120
3.1.1. Rhetorical Structure of 3:21-26	120
3.1.1.1. The First Macro Unit and the Micro Units (3:21a-b and 22a-b)	120
3.1.1.2. The Second Macro Unit and the Micro Units (3:22c and 23a-b)	122
3.1.1.3. The Third Macro Unit and the Micro Units (3:24-25a)	122
3.1.1.4. The Fourth Macro Unit and the Micro Units (3:25b-26a, 3:26b, 3:26c)	123
3.1.2. Diatribal Structure of 3:27-31	124
3.2. Exegetico-Rhetorical Analysis of Part I of the Pericope (3:21-26)	126
3.2.1. Righteousness of God has been Revealed (3:21a-b)	126
3.2.1.1. The Adverb Νυνί	126
3.2.1.2. The Particle δέ	127
3.2.1.3. Δικαιοσύνη τοῦ θεοῦ	128
3.2.1.3.1. Grammatical Analysis	128
3.2.1.3.2. Δικαιοσύνη τοῦ θεοῦ in Paul	131
3.2.1.4. Anarthrous Usage of δικαιοσύνη θεοῦ	132
3.2.1.5. Πεφανέρωται	133
3.2.1.6. Μαρτυρουμένη	134
3.2.1.7. The Preposition ὑπό	135
3.2.1.8. Ὑπὸ τοῦ νόμου καὶ τῶν προφητῶν	135
3.2.1.9. Χωρὶς νόμου	136

3.2.1.10. Paul's Concept of νόμος and ἔργα νόμου (Law and Works of Law)	136
3.2.1.11. Rhetorical Features of 3:21a-b	139
3.2.1.12. Theological Reflection	140
3.2.2. Righteousness of God and Faith (3:22a and b)	141
3.2.2.1. Διά πίστεως Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ	142
3.2.2.1.1. Πίστις χριστοῦ Debate	142
3.2.2.1.2. History of the Debate	143
3.2.2.1.3. The Opinions of the Commentators	146
3.2.2.1.4. Grammatical Analysis	148
3.2.2.1.5. Theological Analysis	151
3.2.2.1.6. Πίστις Χριστοῦ in Rom 3:22a, 25b and 26c	153
3.2.2.2. The Preposition εἰς	155
3.2.2.3. Πάντα	155
3.2.2.4. Τοὺς πιστεύοντας	156
3.2.2.5. Paul's Concept of Faith	157
3.2.2.6. Rhetorical Features of 3:22a-b	159
3.2.2.7. Theological Reflection	160
3.2.3. Human Sin and the Universal Depravity (3:22c-23a-b)	161
3.2.3.1. Οὐ γὰρ ἐστὶν διαστολή (3:22c)	161
3.2.3.2. Πάντες γὰρ ἤμαρτον (3:23a)	162
3.2.3.3. Καὶ ὑστεροῦνται τῆς δόξης τοῦ θεοῦ (3:23b)	163
3.2.3.4. Paul's Concept of δόξα (Glory)	164
3.2.3.5. Paul's Concept of ἁμαρτία (Sin)	165
3.2.3.6. Rhetorical Features of 3:22c-23a-b	166
3.2.3.7. Theological Reflection	167
3.2.4. Source Criticism of Rom 3:24-26a	167
3.2.5. Justification and Redemption (3:24)	168
3.2.5.1. Δικαιούμενοι: Paul's Concept of Justification	168
3.2.5.2. Δωρεὰν τῆ αὐτοῦ χάριτι (by his Grace as a Gift)	172
3.2.5.3. Ἀπολυτρώσις: Paul's Concept of Redemption	173
3.2.5.4. Rhetorical Features of 3:24	178
3.2.5.5. Theological Reflection	179
3.2.6. Justification and Atonement (3:25a)	179
3.2.6.1. Ὅν προέθετο ὁ θεὸς	179
3.2.6.2. Paul's Concept of ἱλαστήριον	181
3.2.6.2.1. Ἰλαστήριον Identified as Mercy Seat	184
3.2.6.2.2. Ἰλαστήριον as Means of Propitiation	186
3.2.6.2.3. Ἰλαστήριον as Means of Expiation	187

3.2.6.2.4. Ἰλαστήριον as Means of Atonement	187
3.2.6.2.5. Conclusions	188
3.2.6.3. Ἐν τῷ αὐτοῦ αἵματι (by his Blood)	188
3.2.6.4. Διὰ τῆς πίστεως ἐν τῷ αὐτοῦ αἵματι (Through the Faithfulness by his Blood)	189
3.2.6.5. Rhetorical Features of 3:25a	190
3.2.6.6. Theological Reflection	190
3.2.7. Three Purposes of God in Designating Jesus as the Sacrifice of Atonement	191
3.2.7.1. First Purpose: Demonstration of God's Righteousness because of the Passing Over of Previous Sins (3:25b-26a)	191
3.2.7.2. Second Purpose: Demonstration of God's Righteousness in the Present Time (3:26b)	195
3.2.7.3. Third Purpose: Manifestation of God's Righteous Character and his Bestowal of Righteousness (3:26c)	196
3.2.7.4. Rhetorical Features	199
3.2.7.5. Theological Reflection	200
3.2.8. Conclusions of the Findings of the Exegesis of Part I of the Pericope	201
3.3. Exegetical and Rhetorical Analysis of Part II of the Pericope (3:27-31)	204
3.3.1. Exclusion of Boasting (3:27 a, b, c, d and e)	206
3.3.2. Justification by Faith (3:28)	210
3.3.3. Universality of Salvation and the Unity of the Entire Human Race (3:29 a, b and c; 30 a and b)	212
3.3.4. We Uphold the Law (3:31 a, b and c)	215
3.3.5. Rhetorical Features of 3:27-31	218
3.3.6. Theological Reflection	219
3.3.7. Conclusions of the Findings of the Exegesis of Part II of the Pericope	221
3.4. Conclusion of the Chapter	221
Chapter 4: The Old Testament and the Jewish Background of the Pauline Doctrine of Righteousness of God	225
4. Introduction	225
4.1. A Semantic Enquiry of the Hebrew Equivalent of Δίκαιος-Group of Words	225
4.2. The Meaning of the קָדוֹשׁ-Group of Words in the OT and Jewish Writings	228

4.2.1. Righteousness in the Old Testament	228
4.2.1.1. Righteousness as Concurrence with a Norm	228
4.2.1.2. Righteousness and Relationality	230
4.2.1.3. Yahweh's Righteousness	232
4.2.1.4. Righteousness as Punishment to the Wicked and Deliverance to the Poor	233
4.2.1.5. Righteousness and Life within the Community of Israel	235
4.2.1.6. Righteousness and Unmerited Salvation	237
4.2.1.7. Righteousness and Faith	238
4.2.1.8. Righteousness and Individual's Right Behaviour	241
4.2.1.9. Conclusions	242
4.2.1.10. Difference between OT Perspective and Pauline Perspective of Righteousness of God	245
4.2.2. Righteousness in the Dead Sea Scrolls (DSS)	247
4.2.2.1. Some Preliminary Remarks	247
4.2.2.2. The Community Rule (1 QS)	248
4.2.2.3. The Thanksgiving Psalms	250
4.2.2.4. The Commentary on Habakkuk (1 QpHab)	252
4.2.2.5. Conclusions	253
4.3. Conclusion of the Chapter	254

Chapter 5: The Theology of the Righteousness of God in the Romans 257

5. Introduction	257
5.1. Theological Views of Scholars on Δικαιοσύνη Τού Θεοῦ	259
5.2. Theological Analysis of Righteousness of God in Romans	260
5.2.1. Righteousness of God in the Propositio (1:16-17) and in the Elucidation of the Propositio (3:21-31)	260
5.2.2. Righteousness of God in the First Probatio (1:18-3:20)	263
5.2.3. Righteousness of God in the Second Probatio (4:1-25)	264
5.2.4. Righteousness of God in the Third Probatio (5:1-8:39)	267
5.2.4.1. Peace, Reconciliation and Hope (5:1-11)	268
5.2.4.2. Liberation from the Power of Sin and Death (5:12-21)	269
5.2.4.3. The Experience of being Dead to Sin and Union with Christ (6:1-23)	270
5.2.4.4. Liberation from the Bondage of Law (7:1-25)	272
5.2.4.5. Liberation from the Power of Flesh and Living in Spirit as the Children of God (8:1-17)	273

5.2.4.6. Cosmic Redemption and Hope of Glorious Future (8:18-25)	275
5.2.4.7. Helps of the Spirit in the Life of the Believers	276
5.2.5. Righteousness of God in the Fourth Probatio (9:1-11:36)	277
5.2.6. Righteousness of God in the Fifth Probatio (12:1-15:13)	281
5.2.7. Summary of the Theological Perspectives of the Righteousness of God in Romans	284
5.3. Righteousness of God Through Faith in the Other Letters of Paul	286
5.4. Righteousness of God in the Letter of James and in the Gospel of Matthew	288
5.5. Conclusion of the Chapter	290
Chapter 6: Contextual Application of the Pauline Doctrine of Righteousness of God	293
6. Introduction	293
6.1. Ecumenical Implications	295
6.1.1. Fundamental Principles	295
6.1.2. Analysis of the Consensus on Justification	296
6.1.3. Practical Ecumenism	298
6.2. Interreligious Dialogue and Socio-Religious Harmony	305
6.3. Commitment to Social Justice	308
6.3.1. Gender and Social Equality	309
6.3.2. Dignity of the Person and Human Rights	310
6.3.3. Liberation of the Poor	311
6.4. Conclusion of the Chapter	312
General Conclusion	315
Bibliography	323